Rule 6. The Attacker

6.1 All attackers will stand in front of their opponent in such a way that they must take a step to complete the attack.

6.2 All attackers will attack using medium strength. On a dangerous hold, such as arm locks, full nelsons or chokes, the hold should be first applied and then medium strength and pressure should be used. The idea is to escape from the hold, not for the attacker to hurt the defender.

6.3 All attackers will attack with commitment, at a speed appropriate to the defender's rank, and they are not to attempt to counter or resist any defense the defender attempts.

6.4 If an attacker wishes to put a hold on the defender the attacker will signify clasping his hands in front of his chest, as in Ryoeri Hazushi. The defender will allow the attacker to get his hold.

6.5 In the Brown and Black Belt divisions, the attacker should strike with the intent of just touching the defender should the defender fail to block or avoid the blow. The attacker should not strike to intentionally miss or fall short.

1. Strikes should be delivered with speed and power appropriate to the division and with the intent of not hurting the defender should the strike connect.

Rule 7. The Defender

7.1 Any defensive stance may be taken by the defender before the attacks.

7.2 There is no time limit on how long a defense may last.

7.3 A defender must:

1. Escape or release any hold applied to him by the attacker.
2. Block or parry any attacks initiated against him.
3. Follow-up with an appropriate submission technique.

EXAMPLE: A simple escape may be appropriate for someone who merely grabs your wrist, while a killing or maiming art would be inappropriate.

7.4 A defender may use a strike (simulated) to stun the attacker before the escape is executed.

7.5 The following defenses are not allowed to be done for safety purposes. Defenders who use these defenses may be warned, penalized and then disqualified from the contest per the Referee's discretion.

1. Any takedown which torque's the neck in the process.
2. Fingers must stay away from the eyes.

7.6 In Brown and Black Belt divisions, the defender is not permitted to remove any weapons from the competition area.

Rule 8. Procedure

8.1 After the defender has been called and his score sheets distributed to the Judges, three attackers will be obtained (two in the Black Belt divisions). The attackers will stay seated until it is their turn to attack. When each new attacker comes up, they will line up across from the defender at a safe distance. Then they will bow to the judges and then to the defender. Upon completion of the round they will assume the starting position and then bow to the defender and then to the judges. Attackers will remain at attention until the match is ready to begin.

8.2 In the black belt divisions a shinnin bow will be performed by both the attacker and defender as soon as the referee begins the match.

8.3 The referee will determine the order in which the attackers will attack.

8.4 The timer will time the round and a signal when the round is over. As a general rule the defender should finish any technique in process when time is called.

Rule 9. Judging

9.1 There will be three (3) Judges and one (1) referee who is not a judge. Out of the four officials one person, usually the highest ranking individual will be appointed by the other members or Contest Director to control the division.

9.2 All Judges must be briefed on the Rules and Scoring Procedures before a match begins.

9.3 The role of the Judge will be to determine the effectiveness and to record the score for each defender.

Rule 10. Scoring

10.1 Each individual Judge will be given a score sheet on which he will record his score.

10.2 A ten (10) point scale will be used for scoring a defense, with half points used as necessary, for each of the three categories.

10.3 For each category judged, a score of five (5) will be considered average.

10.4 Contestants will be judged on the following categories:

1. Safety
2. Variety and Control
3. Overall Effectiveness

10.5 A runner will pick up each completed score from each Judge and give them to the tabulator.

1. The tabulator(s) will add and check the scores with an adding machine or calculator.
2. The total from each score sheet will be combined and the result will be used to determine the winner.

10.6 After the score sheets have been recorded at the end of the contest, the score sheets will be given to the contestant's school head or representative or mailed to the school head. As an option to ensure receipt of the score sheets, the Contest Director should consider using Certified Mail with a "return receipt". The Contest Director may retain the score sheets and review them for a period of seven (7) days.

Rule 11. The Referee

11.1 The referee will have control over the safety of the contest.

11.2 The referee will insure that all contestants have short fingernails and are not wearing jewelry.

11.3 The referee will take an active role in order to insure that the attacker attacks with the proper force, speed and variety of techniques.

11.4 The referee will insure that the attacker does not try to counter the defender.

11.5 The referee will insure that the defender is applying the techniques with the proper amount of control and force.

11.6 The referee will call out the attacks to be executed in each round of the Pee-Wee and all White Belt Divisions (unless the use of spontaneous attacks has been preapproved).

11.7 The referee will be responsible for the final selection of attackers for each uke.

11.8 The Referee will be responsible for the issuance of Penalty Points.

Rule 12. Penalties

12.1 Penalties will be divided into four categories:

1. A -- Warnings
2. B -- Point loss (when done by attacker, points are granted the defender)
3. C -- Disqualification. A disqualified competitor keeps whatever score they have obtained to that point, with whatever placement they may therefore obtain.
4. D -- Exclusion. The competitor is disqualified and loses any score already obtained.
5. E -- Suspension from future AJJF Competitions. (Action would be initiated by the local Contest Director and implemented by the Administrator of Internal Relation under the direction of the AJJF Board of Professors.)

12.2 Chart of penalties. When more than one penalty is listed in a box, assessment is at the Referee's discretion.

Part 4 Sumo Rules

Rule 1. PURPOSE

1.1. The sumo contest is a competition among contestants, who are trying to win the contest with spirit of kokua in one of three ways.

1. Contestant may force the other contestant to touch any part of his body outside of the sumo circle.
2. Contestant may force the other contestant to touch any part of his body, other than his feet, to the mat while inside the circle.

Rule 2. DIVISIONS AND POOLS

2.1. At the registration stage of the contest all competitors will be weighed in and notation will be taken as to their age and experience in martial arts.

1. While rank can be used to judge experience in the adult division, length of time in class should be used to judge experience of juniors.

2.2. Junior pools usually are for ages up to 15 inclusive. Senior pools are for those over 16.

2.3. Pools will be created utilizing standard pool sheets containing groups of 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 or 10 contestants.

2.4. Pools should be created with the objective of having the highest amount of competitors in each pool with regard to weight and experience.

2.5. Setting up the pools are the most important part of the contest, not only for the enjoyment of the competitors but for their overall safety as well. The standard weights used in judo contests are as follows. This can be used as a guideline when creating the pools. However the people in charge of the pools should carefully weigh both the age and experience of contestants in the creation of the pools.

2.6. In junior divisions weight is a good way to divide pools. Senior pools should be divided first by rank, then by weight. Ranks can be combined if pools are short.

2.7. Standard Judo Weight Divisions

3.1. Referee-Controls action of the match. Responsible for the safety of the competitors. Should be a higher ranking individual

3.2. Pool Controllers-Calls contestants to report to their pool. Announces when competitors are to compete. Chiefly in charge of reporting winning and losing competitors on the pool sheet. Then determining places on the pool sheets. This person can be any person trained to complete the pool sheet.

3.3. Auditor- This person or team reviews the pool sheets to ensure that they are correct and complete.

Rule 4. CREATING THE SUMO CIRCLE

4.1. Although various methods exist to creating the sumo circle, the best way is to use a piece of standard outside chalk.

4.2. An official sumo circle is a little over 15 feet in diameter. However consideration should be made for those competing. Junior circles might need to be made smaller.

Rule 5. SCHEME OF CONTEST

5.1. Introduction- After pools are completed and the sumo circle is created, the referee will take his place in the sumo circle. Pool controllers will be positioned around and at a safe distance from the sumo circle. At this time an introduction should be made of the referee and the pool controllers. Following this should be a demonstration and explanation of the rules of the contest. Next a question and answer period should be held. After this all competitors should make a bow of respect and sportsmanship. First to the head of the class and then to the referee/contest director. Pool controllers will then call contestants in their pools and the contestants will go to and sit down next to the pool controllers.

5.2. Start of Contest- The referee will then start by pointing to the pool controller. The controller will send the first two contestants up as indicated on the pool sheet.

1. The referee should make a determination whether he wants to start the contestants apart at the edges of the circle or together with contestants holding each other's shoulders.
 1. Starting Apart-Older children and adults can be started apart on opposite ends of the circle, facing each other.
 2. Starting Together- Smaller children should be started together with their hands on each other shoulders at the center of the circle. The advantage to this method is that the referee can help the small children overcome nervousness and shyness. By starting together the children will be more apt to push each other out of the circle rather than shying away from their opponent.

5.3. The Contest- After the contestants are ready to begin, the referee should shout "Hajime" which means begin or blow a whistle and the contestants should begin to fight. The contestants should try to end the contest in one of three ways:

1. Forcing opponent outside of circle- The contest ends when one of the contestants makes contact outside of the circle with any part of their body.
2. Forcing opponent to the mat inside the circle- The contest ends when one of the contestants makes contact outside of the circle with any part of their body except their feet.
3. Carrying opponent outside of the circle-The contest ends if one competitor lifts his opponent of the mat completely and carries him outside of the circle. They must then safely put the contestant down.
4. Methods of Attack
 1. Pushing/Pulling- The contestant may push or pull his opponent outside of the circle at any angle and by grabbing any legal part of the opponent's body (any area that is not a vital area) or by grabbing any part of the opponent's uniform, except in vital areas.
 2. Throwing-Since the contest does not have any divisions by rank, the referee and the sensei's of the competitors must decide pre-contest whether throws will be allowed in certain divisions. Generally intermediate level junior competitors, those that have studied over six months should be allowed to throw. Generally all adults should be allowed to throw. THROWING IS THE MOST DANGEROUS PART OF SUMO ESPECIALLY IN THE JUNIOR DIVISIONS. THE REFEREE MUST ENSURE THE SAFETY OF THE COMPETITORS TO THE BEST OF HIS ABILITY.
5. After the contest ends the referee should clearly signal the winner to the pool controller. The winning competitor should also report his win to the pool controller.

6. The referee should then proceed clockwise or counter-clockwise move on to the next pool controller who should send up the next competitors.
7. After a pool has been completed, it should be taken to the auditors to check it for accuracy.

5.4. End of Contest

1. After all pools have been called all competitors should be dismissed.
2. Auditors should complete their job of checking pool sheets for accuracy.
3. Awards should then be determined and the award ceremony should commence.
4. After award ceremony is completed and final remarks are made. All competitors should bow out to the referee/contest director and to the head of the class.

Rule 6. USING AND COMPLETING POOL SHEETS AND DETERMINING PLACEMENT OF COMPETITORS

6.1. Those completing pool sheets will complete pool sheets as follows.

1. Under Name-Enter Name of Contestant and Weight and enter division (rank or experience) on top of pool sheet.
2. During the contest pool controllers will make a tally mark under wins indicating how many matches the competitor has won. In addition they should circle the corresponding letter of the winner in each match.
3. After the end of the pool the pool controller should tally the number of wins. The winner is the one with the most wins. Second place goes to the person with the second most number of wins, etcetera.
4. Ties should be broken by looking at the head to head matches of the competitors that are tied.
5. If there is a 3-way tie or a winner cannot be determined from some mishap then a run off match or matches should be held.

Rule 7. PENALTIES

7.1. If a competitor violates the rules, i.e. punches, kicks, and grabs inappropriately, then the referee should give a warning. If a competitor clearly violates a rule a second time, the match should be ended and the match awarded to the other competitor. If the competitor clearly demonstrates a willingness to maliciously injure the other opponent then the referee at his discretion should consider barring the individual from the remainder of the contest. The Contest Director at their discretion should report the individual to the Administrator of Internal Relations.

Rule 8. INJURIES

8.1. During the course of a contest if a minor injury occurs a rest time of not more than 5 minutes should be given to the injured party. If he cannot continue after this time, the referee at his discretion should declare the match a tie. In scoring a tie no point should be issued on the pool sheet.
